EPOTEC - The proven Pool Coating

Having a long lasting pool coating is the ideal way to enjoy your pool to the maximum, without the need to recoat every few years. EPOTEC has been used in the tough Australasian market for many years and there are 1000's of pools coated with EPOTEC. So in this issue of In The Swim, we are showcasing a one of the many pools coated with EPOTEC so you can see it performs as expected.

This Community Pool (25 M) shows the benefits of using EPOTEC epoxy pool coating. Boystown in Sydney selected EPOTEC to recoat their pool in the summer of 2006, 6 years ago. Despite it being a hi usage pool and having lots of wear and tear including a significant amount of windblown, abrasive sand in the pool, the result after 6 years is very satisfying. With few exceptions the coating is intact and performing as expected. The main wear is confined to a few areas at the foot of the steps.

Pacific pool in Ashmore.

When Jason was seeking to upgrade his aged painted pool he sought out EPOTEC. Coming from a marine construction environment he knew about the demands made on coatings in tough situations and determined that EPOTEC would be the right answer for his pool. After a thorough clean and some localised repairs two coats of EPOTEC in Pacific were applied. Now the pool looks really cool and inviting, in this semi tropical environment.

Bondi in SE Queensland.

Richard's worn Marblesheen pool has seen better days and he decided to engage Pool Internal Revivals to undertake a refurbishment. Kevin carefully cleaned and repaired the surface prior to applying EPOTEC in colour Bondi. Now it's ready to entertain the family in fine style for many more years.
